The Association for the Study of Connecticut History and Central Connecticut State University

invite poster presentations from the graduate and undergraduate communities in Connecticut's colleges and universities on the subject of "Connecticut and the Great War," in conjunction with the fall ASCH fall conference. This is a great opportunity for graduate and undergraduate students to share their research with the state's college faculty, fellow students, historians, history buffs, and the public. Please keep in mind that you will have a diverse audience at the conference, and you should be prepared to explain the 'big picture' motivating your work for people from different disciplines.

Posters will be displayed in the Constitution Room at Central Connecticut State University during the lunch break, and presenters will have the opportunity to present their work to the over 100 people expected to attend the conference.

Please plan to use tri-fold foam presentation board with dimensions of 36" height X 48" width. Easels will be provided.
